ORDER

This matter is before the court on the plaintiff's Motion for Reconsideration of the order granting the defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment [#147]. The court, having reviewed the motion and being fully advised in the premises finds that the motion is not well taken and should be denied. The court specifically finds as follows:

The plaintiff has not cited to any rule in moving for reconsideration. The Federal Rules do not recognize a "motion for reconsideration" as such. However, the Fifth Circuit has consistently stated that a motion so denominated, provided that it challenges the prior judgment on the merits, will be treated as either a motion "to alter or amend" under rule 59(e) or a motion for "relief from judgment" under Rule 60(b). The proper denomination of the motion is determined by the time within which the motion is served. If the motion is served within ten days of the rendition of judgment, it falls under Rule 59(e); if it is served after that time, it falls under Rule 60(b). See Ford v. Elsbury, 32 F.3d 931, 937, n.7 (5th Cir. 1994). The present motion was filed within ten days of rendition of the original judgment, thus it will be considered under Rule 59(e).

"A motion for reconsideration filed within ten days of judgment is treated as a motion to alter or amend under Rule 59(e) Rule 59(e) has been interpreted as covering motions to vacate judgments, not just motions to modify or amend.” Edward H. Bohlin Co. v. Banning Co., 6 F. 3d 350, 353, 355 (5th Cir. 1993). “A motion to alter or amend the judgment under Rule 59(e) ‘must clearly establish either a manifest error of law or fact or must present newly discovered evidence’ and ‘cannot be used to raise arguments which could, and should, have been made before the judgment issued.’” Rosenzweig v. Azurix Corp., 332 F.3d 854, 863-64 (5th Cir. 2003)(quoting Simon v. United States, 891 F.2d 1154, 1159 (5th Cir.1990)). Relief under Rule 59(e) is also appropriate when there has been an intervening change in the controlling law. In re Benjamin Moore & Co., 318 F.3d 626, 629 (5th Cir.2002).

The present motion filed by the plaintiff seeks to reargue the same facts and the application of the same law to those facts as was argued in the original motion and response. He is attempting a “second bite” at the apple. Neither the facts nor the law have changed in the intervening period of entry of the judgment and the present motion. Therefore, the court finds that the motion is not well taken and should be denied.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED AND ADJUDGED that the plaintiff’s Motion for Reconsideration [#147] is denied.

SO ORDERED AND ADJUDGED this the 16th day of October, 2006.
